PRETTY WEDDING AT BIGLERVILLE

Miss Margaret Koser, of Biglerville, and T. B. Edgar McLure, of St. Louis, Married at Bride's Home. Pretty Wedding.

An exceptionally pretty wedding took place Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Koser in Biglerville when their daughter, Miss Margaret J. Koser and Mr. T. B. Edgar McLure, of St. Louis, Missouri, were married. Rev. D. W. Woods, of Gettysburg, performing the ceremony.

A color scheme of green and white was beautifully carried out in the decorations, which were by Robbins of Carlisle, and in the gowns. The living room in which the ceremony was performed was decorated with a profusion of ferns and cut flowers.

The Germania Orchestra of Carlisle played the Lohengrin march as the wedding party descended the main staircase into the hall and from there entered the living room through an aisle formed by ribbons held by the ushers, Charles B. McLure, Jr., of St Louis; Roswell Doty, of Mifflintown; Adam Hitchies, of Frostburg, Maryland, and Maurice S. Weaver, of Gettysburg.

Rev. Mr. Woods preceded the bridal party and was followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Marian McLure, of St Louis, Missouri, and Miss Katharine Duncan, of Gettysburg, Miss Clara McLure, of St. Louis, and Miss Frances Sloan, of Cumberland, Maryland. They wore gowns of white marquisette over green messaline and poke bonnets of white lace over green. They carried marguerites. Miss Blanche Klinger, of Gettysburg, the maid of honor, followed the bridesmaids. She wore a gown of green messaline, trimmed with white net and pale pink roses, and a pink picture hat. Miss Klinger carried pale pink roses. The bride followed with her father. She wore a handsome gown of white satin trimmed in lace, pearls and bead embroidery. She wore a veil of white tulle with pearls and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

They were met by the groom with William R. McLure, of Philipsburg, Montana, who was the best man. The ring ceremony was used.

The presents were unusually numerous and handsome. The gift of the groom to the bride was a cross of rubies.

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. McLure went by automobile to Harrisburg. The bride wore a tailored traveling suit of brown serge and a green and brown poke bonnet. From Harrisburg they left for St. Louis where they will remain at Mr. McLure's home for two weeks before proceeding to Virginia City, Montana, where they will reside. Mr. McLure is a mining engineer and will be engaged in that profession at Virginia City.

The wedding was attended by a large number of guests among whom were O. B. McLure, of St Louis, and Mr. and Mrs. Phineas Janney, of Lincoln, Virginia.

IMPROVING ROADS

Philip Schriver, supervisor, and George Straesbaugh, roadmaster, are to be congratulated upon the repairs they have been making to the roads in Cumberland township. They are making very effective use of stone, putting the roads in excellent condition.

Roadmasters J. Walter Kime and McCadden are doing similar good work with stones in Straban township. They have been using John A. Snyder's large engine to do the scraping.

PREACHING ON THE SQUARE

A traveling evangelistic party in a large automobile which had the rear part arranged like a gypsy wagon spent an hour on the Square Tuesday afternoon and again in the evening. The preaching was of the usual street evangelist kind, and the singing was typical also.

TIPS OF FINGERS CUT OFF

Charles Myers, of Brushtown, employed in the Hanover Heel and Innersole factory, had the ends of three fingers of his left hand cut off by coming in contact with a plate dyer Monday afternoon.

ROYAL ARCANUM PICNIC

A delegation of Gettysburg members will attend the next meeting of the Associated Councils of the Royal Arcanum of Central Pennsylvania at Mt. Holly park, Cumberland county, near Carlisle, Thursday afternoon, June 22, at 4.30 o'clock. This will be marked by a celebration of the birthday of the Royal Arcanum which was founded June 23, 1877.

There will be a good old fashioned basket picnic, while the attractions of the entertainment will be boating, bowling, dancing, various games and walking and running contests, all of which will be free to members of the Royal Arcanum and their families.

Then there will be a meeting of the executive committee of the Grand Council at 2 p. m., at the Royal Arcanum headquarters in Carlisle and at 4.30 the members will join the picnickers at the park. The grand trustees and many other distinguished Pennsylvania Arcanians will be in attendance, while the new supreme regent, the Rev. F. T. McFadden, D. D., will be the honored guest.

At a regular meeting of the Gettysburg Council of the Royal Arcanum No. 1068, John D. Keith, George W. Reigle, and William F. Codori were elected to become members and the degree in due form was conferred upon them. Jacob G. Slonaker, regent, Edward A. Weaver, secretary, J. Elmer Musselman, treasurer, William A. Taughinbaugh, collector, William Hersh, Esq., acting orator, and George Gottwald, warden, officiated.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM

A report has come to Chambersburg two Jews have swindled a number of persons in different parts of Antrim township, who are now willing to pay a reward for their apprehension. The Jews say they are buying antique furniture, dishes and other old relics. They principally devoted their schemes upon those persons who were in possession of valuable antique furniture and would not sell at any price, by offering them money to get the design, saying they were from that Chambersburg and were making new furniture over the old patterns and that they would return their furniture in a few days. The parties who trusted the Jews with their relics have made an investigation and have found that they have been duped. Some of the relics were very valuable and the owners would not part with them for any consideration. The whereabouts of the swindlers are not known.—Chambersburg Valley Spirit.

LOST HANDSOME RING

Baltimore street this morning looked as one might expect to find it on a winter day when the pavements are covered with ice. About two thirds of the pedestrians took to the middle of the road and all because of a lost $185 diamond ring. The owner, Mrs. Edward Faber, of Williamsport, was one of an automobile party who stopped at the Hotel Gettysburg Tuesday night. This morning when the machine had reached the Battlefield Hotel the ring was missed and it was believed to have been dropped somewhere between the two hotels. A reward of $5.00 was immediately offered and this was increased by rumor to $25.00. A large searching party immediately started to patrol the street but nothing was found of the missing property. Mr. and Mrs. Faber have a number of relatives here.

THROWN FROM WAGON

While driving on the battlefield on Wednesday Mrs. L. E. Lackwood, of Bradford, was thrown to the road when a rear wheel of the wagon in which she was riding went over one of the large balls at the side of the road. She sustained painful bruises but no serious injuries. Dr. H. M. Hartman rendered the necessary attention after Mrs. Lackwood was brought to the Eagle Hotel where she had been stopping with a party of friends.

RE-ELECTED

At a meeting of the McSherrystown School Board, Miss Bernardine Corrigan was re-elected principal at a salary of $70 per month, and Miss Helen Neely, of Fairfield, assistant, at $60 per month, for the term of nine months.

FARM SOLD

Bank and Peckman have sold the Richard Hall farm of 80 acres in Cumberland township to John F. Stevens, of Butler township, who will take possession April 1, 1912.

WILL PLAY TWO SERIES OF GAMES

Gettysburg Young Men's Christian Association Base Ball Team will Play Series with Hanover and York Springs. Gettysburg Day.

The Gettysburg Y. M. C. A. base ball team has been practicing regularly for the games which have been arranged for the next few weeks. Others will also be scheduled as the season progresses.

Two series of games have been arranged, the one with Hanover and the other with York Springs. The first game with Hanover will be played at that place June 17, the second here on June 22, and the third at Hanover June 28. An effort is being made to make June 28 "Gettysburg day" at Hanover and a special excursion train will be run in the evening to bring the people back providing enough can be secured to guarantee the necessary number. The attractions at the park will all be in full swing and efforts to make it a town outing are in progress.

The series with York Springs will start here on July 12. The second game will be played at York Springs on July 15 and the third game will be played on July 26, the place not yet determined upon.

A game has been arranged to be played here with Rutherford on July 7. Emmitsburg will play here within a week or two but the date has not yet been closed.

The local team has made a good showing up to this time and indications are that the balance of the season will see a large proportion of victories.

RECEIVED HONORS

Lloyd VanDoren has won a fellowship in chemistry at John's Hopkins University and Albert Billheimer a fellowship in classics at Princeton University. Mr. VanDoren has been at Johns Hopkins since his graduation from Gettysburg College in 1909. Mr. Billheimer has been spending the past few years at Princeton. He graduated from Gettysburg in 1906.

Melvin J. Cook, of Aspers, graduated from Princeton University, Tuesday. Mr. Cook was one of three to receive the highest honor among the graduates. He also won the highest honor in the departments of mathematics and physics. Mr. Cook, a native of Menallen township, is a son of the late Ellis Cook. He was one of the foremost teachers of Adams county and a very able mathematician. He is a graduate of Cumberland Valley State Normal School and Perkiomen Seminary.

RECOVERING

Harry Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs Henry Hoffman, who was knocked down and badly injured by an automobile near the reservoir at York several weeks ago, is rapidly recovering. The dislocation and broken bones in his shoulder, and all of the cuts and bruises on his body, have healed. The broken bones in his leg are knitting nicely and except for an open sore on the leg where the bones were broken, he no longer has any outward marks of his injuries. It is expected that he will be able to get about on crutches in a week or so, his leg being encased in a plaster cast.

EMIG—WEIGLE

John Emig, formerly of East Berlin, and Miss Elizabeth Weigle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Weigle, West York, were married Tuesday evening at the bride's home. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. M. Smith, pastor of St. Stephen's Reformed church, West York. Only the immediate relatives of the couple besides a few friends were present at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Emig will reside in West York.

MORE SMALL POX

Dr. C. J. Hunt, who is actively engaged in endeavoring to check the small pox contagion on the mountain, reports another case in Adams County. The new patient is Annie Scott, 14 years of age, of Hamiltonban township, near the Tartown school house, which is in the immediate neighborhood of the other Adams County cases.

PARK OPENS

The summer season at Caledonia park opened Tuesday evening.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR CONVENTION

Church of the Brethren Convention Seems a Probability for Gettysburg for Next Year. Springs Hotel Site Available

Local parties are very sanguine of success in the matter of securing the big Church of the Brethren convention for the town in 1912. The matter of an available site for the event, which is usually attended by upwards of thirty thousand people, was practically decided when it was found Wednesday that the Springs Hotel property could be gotten for the ten days of the convention.

A committee of local members of the Church of the Brethren visited the property Wednesday evening and after a thorough inspection said that no better site could be secured anywhere. There is plenty of shade, sloping ground for the "tabernacle," good water and all the other features that are desired by the locating committee which meets in about two weeks and to whose meeting Gettysburg will send a committee.

Before this meeting a canvass of Gettysburg will be made to see how many people can be housed in town. Many will be given rooms in the Springs Hotel and tents will be erected for the remainder. A uniform charge is made for sleeping accommodations.

The Church of the Brethren convention is by far the largest thing which Gettysburg has ever attempted to secure. It is held the early part of May each year and it is stated that if this town gets it for 1912 and shows its ability to handle the crowd the convention will be a regular event here at intervals of three years.

As stated in these columns a day or two ago the choice lies practically among the following towns, Chambersburg, York, Carlisle and Gettysburg. None of the other towns has the inducements to offer which Gettysburg presents and the chances here seem to be exceptionally good.

MOVABLE CONVENTION

A "movable" convention of the Harrisburg District Epworth League, will be held during the week in the Cumberland Valley. The first session will open Waynesboro Thursday, June 15, at 1.30 p. m. In the evening at 7.30 Rev. Joseph M. M. Gray, will deliver a lecture. The devotional exercises will be conducted by Rev. Joseph V. Adams, pastor of the Hanover Methodist church. Following the session Friday morning, the convention will adjourn to Pen Mar, where exercises will be held in the big auditorium at 2 and 7.30 p. m. The meetings will be addressed by Bishop Anderson. The convention music will be in charge of Rev. and Mrs D. N. Miller, of Montoursville.

William R. Schmucker, of Littlestown, is president of the Epworth League, and assisted in arranging the program for the convention.

WILLIAM J. COLLINS

William J. Collins died on Monday afternoon in Mt. Joy township from effects of pneumonia contracted in January, never having fully recovered. He was about 55 years of age. He enjoyed the respect of every one who knew him. He leaves a wife one son and two daughters, L. U. Collins, of Mt. Joy; Mrs. Clarence Wolf and Miss Bessie Collins, at home. He is survived by two brothers and two sisters: ex-Prothonotary Amos J. Collins, of this place; C. C. Collins, of Mt. Joy; Mrs. H. Bucher, of Gettysburg, and Mrs. J. F. Rider, of Cumberland township. Funeral Thursday at 9.30 a. m. Services will be conducted by Rev. Dr. T. J. Barkley, at St. Mark's church.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION

Mrs. Elizabeth Vaughn, of Breckenridge street, has returned from the York Hospital, where she has been under treatment for a severe case of [illegible] on one eye, while the other eye was also affected. The operation was successful and vision restored by the specialist, Dr. W. B. Brinkley, of York.

FOUND THROUGH AD

The brown bag lost and advertised through these columns has been found through the ad.

[illegible] MORE BOUQUETS

Plank pitched for the Athletics on Tuesday and his team won from St. Louis giving the Quaker City papers an opportunity to pass the Gettysburg boy the following:

Record: "Eddie Plank had the Brownies so bewildered that they couldn't put one and one together in any one inning until after two were down and the additions then wouldn't add anything to the run column."

Press: "Veteran Eddie Plank yesterday pushed the World Champion Athletics a round nearer the top of the American League pennant ladder by shutting out the St. Louis Browns at Shibe Park by a score of 6 to 0. It made the 'Athletics' third straight victory over the Browns here and the eighteenth win for the Champions in twenty games just completed."

Inquirer: "Edward Plank, of Gettysburg, Pa., was assigned by the local tactician to go out on the pitcher's mound and accept another gift from the philanthropists of the American League to add to his collection in the official records, while Joe Lake was selected as the goat to stand for another defeat. It would be a libel to call it pitching a ball game; there was no chance for it to develop into a ball game, and everybody knew it. Plank fanned ten of the philanthropists during the perfunctory performance, and the only times he gave 'em a chance to scare up even a fleeting hope for a run was when he felt in the mood to show leniency toward the public and give them a run for their money. Then he would throw on the air brake and the safety clutch and bring the thing to a dead stop. There was nothing to it."

DAMAGE CAN BE REPAIRED

Early reports of the damage done by Saturday's storm at the Williams' Grove picnic grounds were exaggerated. While ninety trees were uprooted, the roofs of two cottages ripped off and several pagodas, used by exhibitors during the annual Grangers' picnic, were badly damaged, the grounds will be in shape for this season's exposition.

The orchards between Mechanicsburg and the Grove, as well as in other sections of Cumberland county have been badly damaged by the storm, in several instances as many as twenty trees in a single orchard being put out of commission.

PHYSICIANS WILL MEET

At a meeting of the executive committee of the fifth censorial district of the Pennsylvania medical society in Gettysburg, it was decided to hold a meeting of the censorial district in Waynesboro, July 26. Dr. J. Burns Amberson, Waynesboro, as vice president attended the executive committee meeting. The other members were Dr. Wentz, Hanover, president, and Dr. E. E. Holtzapple, York, secretary. Dr. Thomas McCrea, Baltimore, and Dr. John B Deaver, Cannonsburg, will deliver addresses.

STRUCK NEW HOUSE

On Sunday evening lightning struck the new two story frame dwelling house in Brushtown, just completed by Paul Rahn, shattering the slate roof and damaging the porch. The building which was uninsured was covered by insurance in the Adams County Mutual Insurance Company.

SOLD LOTS

Frank Cunningham has sold two lots of ground on Water street to Howard A. Stonesifer, of Littlestown.

THREE SQUARES TO BE CURBED

Town Council has Ordinance Presented Providing for Improvement for which Town Pays One Third of the Cost.

At a special meeting of the town council on Wednesday evening an ordinance was presented providing that the town should construct curbs and gutters at the following places in Gettysburg, the south side of North street, (Railroad street,) from Washington to Carlisle street; the east side of Baltimore street from East Middle street to the Square; the south side of Chambersburg street from Washington street to Franklin street.

Under an act passed by the legislature which adjourned recently the town can do this and charge two thirds of the cost to the property owners, the town paying the remaining one third. The curb will be of concrete and the contract will be let to the lowest responsible bidder.

The ordinance was presented and ordered advertised. It will come up for final passage on July 14. It is the plan of council to build these uniform curbs about town gradually until the entire town is curbed and guttered the same way. There will be no more difficulty about grades then, for any person wanting to build a pavement along a street with the borough curb will have his grade right there and all the difficulty which has been so troublesome for some years will be at an end. Borough Solicitor White gave it as his opinion that a separate ordinance would have to be passed every time it was decided to put down curbs and gutters in some portion of town. In this way all property owners can have the privilege of being heard before final action is taken.

The ordinance presented Wednesday evening would do away with the ordinance adopted June 6 which provided that the borough should pay the entire cost of the curb.

It was decided by Council, on motion of Mr. Stock seconded by Mr. Kitzmiller, that the plan of laying sewer from the alley in the rear of Hotel Gettysburg to Water street as adopted at the regular meeting of Council last week be reconsidered and then a motion by Messrs Koch and Sheeler, providing that, instead, an extension be built from the sewer in the rear of the Wineman building to the center of Carlisle street in order to accommodate the property owners about the corner of Carlisle street and Centre Square, was passed.

It was believed that the cost of laying sewer by the former plan would be between $800 and $1200 while the latter would cost only a few hundred dollars and would give almost as good service.

The secretary of council was instructed to call the attention of Postmaster Beales to the dangerous character of the federal building site on Baltimore street, suggesting that the government put up fence to prevent any possible accident.

A committee consisting of Mr. Tawney, Mr. Bott and Mr. Stock was appointed to investigate the matter of the grade for James Caldwell's pavement on Chambersburg street. Mr. Caldwell had appeared before council to present the matter.

CALLED ON PRESIDENT

A dispatch from Washington under date of June 13 says:

"Dr William A. Granville, president of Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, himself a Scandinavian, called to see President Taft and told him that the Scandinavians of the country would support him in next year's election, just as they had done in the last campaign. Dr. Granville is a prominent Lutheran and a Yale alumnus. He presided at the meeting of the Lutheran Synod at the time it was addressed by the President last week and is a warm friend of Mr. Taft."

NEW FACTORY

F. X. Weaver, of McSherrystown, has started the erection of a two story brick factory building, 40 by 80 feet in that town to be occupied by the Penn Box Company which will be removed from Midway as soon as the new factory is completed. The erection of a larger building became necessary on account of increasing business.

Mrs. Belmont Training Girls How to Farm Scientifically

Nine Already at Work In Overalls—Opportunity For Factory Girls

They Learn How to Become Agriculturists and Landscape Gardeners

WORKING ten hours a day and dressed in blue jumpers overalls and cotton shirts, nine happy girls are forming the pioneer class of a school of agriculture which Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont is establishing and intends to endow on her Brookholt estate at Hempstead, N. Y. There are numerous agricultural schools throughout the country, but they are connected mainly with colleges and other institutions, and they are not exclusively for women. Mrs. Belmont's school, which she is laying out on 200 acres of her Hempstead place, is probably the only one of its kind in the United States.

It is her intention to give the girls who show aptitude and interest every opportunity, with the hope that on leaving they will be able to take positions as superintendents or go still further into the field of landscape gardening. And it is this brand of ambition and enthusiasm which makes the girls at Brookholt oblivious to aching muscles and clay coated shoes and brings a grin to their faces when you speak about the ten hour day with an interrogation point in your eyes.

Mrs. Belmont Talks.

"It seems as though my idea of a farm for women has dated from the time I can remember anything," said Mrs. Belmont. "I have always believed in it, always wanted it, and now that the school is started I intend that the land shall never be sold; that it shall always remain what it is—a school of agriculture for women. I intend to endow it, and when all the land about is built up and Uniondale is a thriving town this tract of 200 acres will remain exactly what it is today, though larger and always progressive, I hope, in the center of the community.

"I have always been keenly interested in farming and landscape gardening myself, you know, but I always seem to have had the greatest amount of difficulty in getting the right kind of men to do the work for me. When Brookholt was being laid out several years ago and I undertook the personal supervision, though I had the greenest kind of Polacks, raw Irish and German immigrants laboring under me, I hadn't the slightest trouble with them. This confirmed the belief I have always held—that there was a vocation that women could succeed in equally with men and not only succeed in, but find tremendously interesting as well.

"I have started the school with only a small number to begin with, as we are not prepared for more just at present. The outside work is in charge of Mrs. Laura D. Williams, a scientific farmer, who comes from Philadelphia.

Confident of Success.

"Every night the girls make their report of the day's work in a diary which they keep. This includes what they have done throughout the day, the methods followed in each case, the condition of the soil they found and, in short, every detail of plowing, planting, sowing or reaping.

"Then when they leave the school and start out for themselves these diaries will have been converted into the most valuable textbooks, for they will be chronicles not only of what is right to do theoretically in different instances, but they will also stand a record of the actual experience encountered in developing the theories in each case.

"There is no reason why women should not make clever and astute farmers. Women who are at the head of beautiful country homes in England take far more interest in their grounds and houses than the women in this country. Here we leave the work quite to outsiders, to whom we pay a big price to do the work and not bother us until it is done, whereas the wives of country gentlemen abroad demonstrate the keenest personal interest in the development of everything that goes on about their estates. It is really beautiful work, and when has not beautiful work appealed especially to women?"

The Daily Schedule.

From the time they arrive at Brookholt the girls are given two months' probation. If they prove sufficiently able, strong and interested to go on with the work they proceed at $15 a month.

Their schedule for the day begins at 5 a. m. with the sounding of the rising gong, and breakfast is served at 5:30.

At 7 o'clock they start out in the fields and do not return until 12 o'clock, the dinner hour. At 1 o'clock they again start out and do not come back until 6. A hearty supper is then served, and the evening is spent in talking over the day's work and the writing of the diaries.

The final ceremony of the day's actual work is the milking of the cows. Covered from head to foot with white gowns, the girls take turns at playing milkmaid each night.

After the diaries are written they turn in at an early hour.

CONQUERED AT LAST

By R. PEMBERTON SLADE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911

When Mike Dugan left the courtroom for a two years' term in the Arizona penitentiary for horse stealing—the vigilance committee had missed him or he would have been hanged—he turned to Billy Stokes, who was responsible for his arrest, and said:

"When we meet again, Billy, it will be from behind a couple o' guns. Two years behind the bars won't improve my already soured disposition toward you."

"I'll be ready for you, Mike, but I'm afraid you'll have to seek me in the city where I was born and brought up. I advised you long ago to stop monkeying with other people's property and go to work. If you had taken my advice you wouldn't have been about to do time for horse stealing."

The prisoner was led away, and Billy Stokes prepared to leave for the east.

Billy from childhood had been one of those boys who need a wider range than a city affords. While there was nothing bad about him, he was very unruly. Finally his father, feeling that his son would not make an ornament to civilized society, concluded to send him out among the cowboys and desperadoes. Billy found himself quite in his element and remained in the wild and woolly west five years. Then his mother couldn't stand her darling's absence any longer and begged him to come home. Her pleadings were re-enforced by an offer of his father to take the boy into business with him if he would settle down, and this brought Billy round.

A couple of years passed, during which the young man had got on fairly well as a humdrum business man. He lived at home with his father and mother, the idol of both. Though he was fond of them, they might not have been able to keep him had it not been for a girl. At any rate, the three held him chained.

One night Billy, whose room was over the rear entrance to the house, heard a singular sound. It was like the turning of an auger in wood. It ceased and was followed by the sound of a saw. Both sounds were very faint, but Billy had fine ears, sharpened by his western experience, and he was satisfied that a burglar was at work at a rear door. His 42 caliber revolver that he had used in the west was in his bureau drawer, and, taking it in one hand and an electric lamp in the other, after slipping on a dressing gown, he stepped downstairs and into a vestibule at the rear. There he could hear the sawing distinctly. An arm was put through a hole in the door, the key in the lock was turned, the door swung silently open, and the watcher saw the silhouette of a man entering the room.

A flash of electric light revealed the intruder's face, and at the same moment came the words "Hands up!" Being lighted and covered, the burglar obeyed the order.

"Well, upon my word!" exclaimed Billy.

"Yes, I'm Mike Dugan, and I know that voice of yours. You're Billy Stokes."

"At your service. Now, I remember when we parted a couple of years ago you said that when next we met a pair of guns would be between us. You hit it right, but it's I who have the drop on you instead of you having it on me. I suppose your coming here is intentional."

"Yes. As soon as I got out I came here to find you. I concluded that the best way to cover my tracks with respect to the move would be to burglarize the house you were in."

"I see. You could murder me, and if you could make a successful exit without being known you'd get your revenge and go scot free."

"That's about it, Billy."

"But instead of revenge you'll get ten years this time."

"I don't care much. What can a man do who has once been convicted? Only my wife and kids are having a hard time of it with no one to take care of 'em."

"Yes, there's the rub. That's going to bother me in turning you over. I wouldn't mind sending you up again, but you know very well that I sympathize with your family."

"Couldn't you give me a chance to live honest?"

"What! Help a man who has come here to murder me?"

There was no reply to this.

"Mike, you're a fool. I knew you before you took to the bad, and you were a good man, too passionate and revengeful, but I know how you loved your wife and kids, especially the boy you named for me. Now, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll give you a place in my father's business and enough wages to support your family. I know I'm a—no; I'm not a fool. I'll bet my bottom dollar that within another year you will be living comfortably with your wife and children, the kids growing up to make useful citizens. What do you say?"

"Oh, Billy, what a dunce you are! You'd only get yourself into trouble."

"I'll take the risk. You're a better man than you think you are." Billy tossed his revolver on to a table. "Now fire away. You came here for revenge. Take it."

There was the thud of Mike's revolver as it dropped on the floor.

"Billy," he said in a trembling voice, "you're a royal flush."

GOOD AND CHEAP HOGPEN.

Piece It So as to Give the Piggies Plenty of Sun—They Need It.

A good and economical cot for hog raising is shown in the accompanying cut. It is made of skids 4 by 6 and 9 feet long. The joists are 2.2 by 8 and are laid flat. The roof doors are eighteen inches wide, and paper and lap siding are used for the walls. The pen is a convenient knockdown arrangement.

The whole thing can be built for $25.

About the best floor is the ground, with woven wire stretched on top to prevent the hogs from rooting. Electrically welded concrete wire is very satisfactory. This makes a floor which is easy on the hogs, almost free from rats and, if properly bedded, warm and dry. It is, however, more difficult to keep free from dust than some other floors. Many concrete floors are used, but they are cold, liable to be wet and are hard on the hogs' feet. Often almost an entire pig crop and many sows are lost by taking cold on concrete floors. Concrete floors are, however, very satisfactory when covered with plank overlays or false floors, which should be raised from the concrete about an inch by nailing cleats on the under side.

Board floors are expensive, short lived, cold if up off the ground and make the worst kind of rat harbors. Rats may be kept out by packing sand or cinders to the top of the joists before laying the floor, but these materials are often too expensive to be used for this purpose. It is still hard for many farmers to get rid of the notion that anything is good enough for a hog. Yet there is no animal on the farm which requires better protection from cold than the hog, none for which a good bed is more necessary and none so much in need of sunshine as the little pig. The horse and the cow have good coats of hair, even a calf or a colt when left in the cold is provided with a good fur coat, the hen's feathers are the best of protection against cold, but the hog has almost nothing between his skin and the weather.

One of the first requisites for success with hogs is a shelter where young pigs can be kept warm and well supplied with sunshine and fresh air. A little pig takes cold very easily and recovers slowly if at all. To prevent taking cold he must be kept dry, warm, away from drafts and provided with fresh air.

A little pig loves sunshine and needs it almost as much as he needs food. No piggery is fit for the purpose unless it admits direct sunshine on to the floor of every pen at the time the pigs are farrowed, furnishes plenty of fresh air and provides for exercise in the open air. Dryness, sunshine, warmth, fresh air, freedom from drafts and exercise are of primary importance in raising pigs. These secured, the battle is half won. In putting up buildings the six requirements just mentioned must be kept constantly in mind. Not one can be neglected.

Whitewashing the inside of the house is an excellent practice. Besides going a long way toward disinfecting, it increases the light materially. When the sunshine strikes a whitewashed wall much of it is reflected to the floor and does a great deal of good. Dark houses which must be used will be much improved by whitewashing

Poultry Pickings.

Keep the egg record up every day. If you skip one day even the rest will be a guess, and guessing isn't business.

Trap nests are not expensive, but they are very essential to the well directed poultry farm. By using trap nests you can keep a record of the eggs.

The profit in poultry raising for market lies in hatching early, pushing the chickens forward as rapidly as possible and marketing them early in the season.

It will not do to allow ducks to share the common lot of poultry in general—not that they require more attention, but rather a different manner of handling and feeding.

Many people are realizing the profit in raising heavy geese, as they are worth more a pound than the lighter breeds, and every year there is more demand for the Toulouse.

A hen should be fed some grain that she doesn't have to scratch for. Although exercise is necessary to keep her in good health, she needs time to rest and dust herself in the middle of the day.

Treatment for roup: One ounce permanganate of potash to three pints of water for submerging the head. For drinking purposes dilute one pint of the above mixture in three or four pints of water.

Onions chopped fine and mixed with the hen's food occasionally will promote health. Onions are a great poultry tonic, and they are relished by fowls old and young. Fall hatched chicks tumble over one another to get their food when onions are mixed with it.

ELECTRIC LIGHT FOR NEW OXFORD

Lower End Town will Get Light if Satisfactory Arrangements can be Made with Borough Council. Property Owners Eager for it.

New Oxford is looking forward to the possible installation of an electric light plant to supply the borough and private residences and business places. Robert E. Manley and William D. Himes have made a proposition to the town council and if it is accepted and sufficient property owners will take the service New Oxford will get the plant.

The parties promoting the plan find that both borough and private parties must be secured to make the matter profitable. The latter are practically assured and the matter of the town is now in the hands of the council who received the proposition of Mr. Manley and Mr. Himes this week.

They propose to furnish 32 candle power tungsten lights to be placed at the locations of the present kerosene street lamps.

The New Oxford Item in commenting on the proposition says:

"The Town Council will be asked for a franchise, and here is where a 'hitch' may come in. We want electric lights, and want them badly, but the Council should consider well before granting franchises. We believe it would be advisable first to consider if it would not be better for the town to control its own light, heat and power plant in case such were not feasible, then grant a franchise to outsiders, but only after there be positive proof that the same be completed within a reasonable space of time, and not only be granted for the purpose of keeping out some other concern."

FELL IN MONUMENT

Mrs. Lydia A. Deatrick, who has been spending some months with her daughter, Mrs. Elmer E. Hutchison, on West High street sustained an ugly fall in the new Pennsylvania monument on Friday evening. Mrs. Deatrick, who will celebrate her eightieth birthday next Friday, had gone to the top of the monument, with her son-in-law, Mr. Hutchison and his mother, Mrs. J. R. Hutchison. In going down the winding concrete steps on the inside Mrs. Deatrick made a mis-step, falling over Mrs. Hutchison and rolling some distance down the staircase. She was rendered unconscious and Mr. Hutchison carried her the remainder of the way. After some minutes she regained consciousness. An ugly bruise on the back of her head is the principal injury.

CLAY HELD FOR AUGUST COURT

Bail Placed at Two Thousand Dollars in Case against Archie Clay Charged with Taking Twenty Dollars from Hotel Gettysburg.

At a hearing before Squire Harnish Monday afternoon Archie Clay was committed to jail to await August Court in default of $2000 bail. The case was the theft of $20.00 from the Hotel Gettysburg early Saturday morning.

In the testimony of Detective Wilson it was brought out that he saw Clay on the excursion train remove money from under his clothes and put it in his right hand pocket.

Mr. King testified as to the amount of money he placed in the safe Friday evening.

John Weist stated that no person could have gone to the safe from the time Clay left the hotel until the clerk came down.

Clay remarked to several persons that he wanted to go to Baltimore and had but a dollar and fifteen cents. Clay in defence claimed that he got surplus money from tips in the dining room and shining shoes on big days and put it away at home for safe keeping.

Clay when arrested had upon his person two pocket books containing fifty five cents and ten dollars loose in his pocket, also a pair of new gloves.

DANIEL W. RUDY

Daniel W. Rudy, a veteran of the Civil War, died at the home of C. H. Markley, at Cly, York County, June 9th, where he has made his home the past several years. He was aged eighty years, five months and eight days.

He went through some of the hardest battles of the rebellion and endured many hardships. He enlisted at Gettysburg on October 16, 1862, in Co. B, 165th regiment, under Capt. A. Rupp. He was discharged on July 28, 1863, having served nine months and re-enlisted on Aug 16, 1864, at Harrisburg, in Co. D, 201st regiment, under Captain Watson O. Smith, and was discharged on June 21, 1865.

He was a member of the United Brethren church, being a trustee, class leader and Sunday school superintendent for a number of years.

PASTOR AS CONTRACTOR

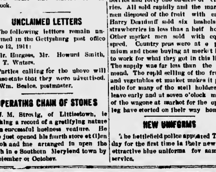

Rev. John W. Forrest, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal churches at Fairfield, Orrtanna, Mont Alto and Ronzerville assisted Contractor John Florence, Ronzerville, Friday, in taking down the steeple of the church that was fast going to decay. Repairs will begin at once. That Rev. Mr. Forrest has mechanical genius about him there is no doubt, as he helped lay the plans to get the steeple down, and this was by no means an easy task. Several men were brought into consultation, some time ago, in regard to this matter, but it seems their plans wouldn't work or, at least, it never was attempted, until Rev. Mr. Forrest began the job. The steeple is coming down all right now.

CURB MARKET

At Tuesday's curb market there were sixty three bushels of strawberries and forty one bushels of cherries. All sold rapidly and the market men disposed of the fruit with ease. Harry Deardorff sold six bushels of strawberries in less than a half hour. Other market men sold with equal speed. Country peas were at a premium and those buying at market had to work for what they got in this line. The supply was far less than the demand. The rapid selling of the fruits and vegetables at market makes it possible for many of the stall holders to leave early and at seven o'clock many of the wagons at market for the opening have started on their way home.

NEW UNIFORMS

SUES FOR DIVORCE ON BIRTH OF SON

John Bancroft, Jr., Starts Action Against Wife, a Dupont.

CASE CREATES A SENSATION

Wilmington Millionaire Declares Max Heibler Is Father of Child Born Three weeks Ago.

Wilmington, Del., June 10.—John Bancroft, Jr., son of John Bancroft, millionaire textile manufacturer of this city, has applied for a divorce from his wife, daughter of Alfred I. Dupont, multi-millionaire vice president of the Dupont Powder company.

The action, which caused a sensation, is a sequel to the elopement of the young couple to Washington, Dec. 8, 1907, where they were married by Rev. D. C. McLeod. The case is brought on alleged statutory grounds.

The docket reads: "John Bancroft, Jr., vs. Mrs. Madeline Dupont Bancroft and Max Heibler, Jr. Libel for divorce."

The Max Heibler, Jr., mentioned is a three-weeks-old son of Mrs. Bancroft, the paternity of whom Bancroft denies. Max Heibler was a resident of Munich, Bavaria, where Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft passed much of their time, following their elopement on Dec. 10, 1907. The husband declares that the son born to Mrs. Bancroft is the child of this Max Heibler.

Trial in September.

The case promises to be one of the most sensational that has ever been heard in the Delaware courts. Divorce cases in this state are heard in open court, and the case will come up at the September term of superior court.

The wedding of the couple created a sensation at the time they left the house of the girl's father in an automobile, following a stormy scene with the girl's mother, and were married in Washington the same day. At the time the bridegroom was a student at Princeton.

Shortly after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft went to Munich, where the husband completed his studies at Heidelberg University. Upon returning to this country, young Bancroft became connected with his father in the Bancroft manufactory.

Allegations are to the effect that while the young wife was in Munich, the husband remaining in Wilmington, she had improper relations, continuing at other European cities. The child was born at the home of Mrs. Bancroft in this city three weeks ago.

The object in joining the child as defendant with its mother, it is said, is to have the court pass upon its legitimacy.

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Bancroft are in this city. He is at Minerva, N. Y., and she is at Atlantic City. Mr. Whiteman, attorney for the husband, declined to discuss the affair.

Thomas Heisel, lawyer for the wife, said: "I have a perfect defense."

According to the docket, Mrs. Bancroft's age is twenty-three and her husband's twenty-six. It is the impression in Wilmington that Mrs. Bancroft is considerably more than three years younger than her husband.

EARTH SWALLOWS GIRL

100 Men Digging to Save Child Entombed by Cave-in.

Scranton, Pa., June 16.—Half a hundred men on the surface and half as many more in the mine workings underneath are digging frantically to rescue seven-year-old Annie Rosetti, who was swallowed by a cave-in while playing with several other children in a field near her home.

The opening is eight feet in diameter and apparently is a glacial hole.

Died Suddenly on Train.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 13.—On her way to her home in Rochester from Aurora with Mrs. Grover Cleveland and other old alumnae of Wells College, where she had attended the commencement exercises of her alma mater, Miss Minnie A. Bellows, aged sixty-five, the oldest living graduate of that college, was stricken on a Lehigh train just out of Aurora and died a few minutes later.

Entombed Miners Saved.

Pottsville, Pa., June 13.—Louis Carman and Joseph Scellar, Seltzer City, were entombed for four hours at the Wadesville colliery. The men had entered the mines to begin their day's work when the roof fell, closing them in. Aid was summoned at once, and a rescue force took them out. They were not seriously hurt, having been imprisoned behind a fall of "roof."

Miss Barker received $14,000,000 as her share of her father's estate, which is held in trust.

TAFT IS WEARY OF MAKING APPOINTMENTS

He Would be Glad if Congress Made Them.

Washington, June 16.—The first authoritative answer to the charge that the administration uses the appointive power of the president to further political ends was made by President Taft.

In conversation with friends the president declared that he would be delighted if congress would take from his hands the duty of naming collectors of internal revenue, United States marshals and postmasters of the second and third classes. The president told his visitors that nothing which congress could do would be received more gladly by him than this act.

He would be happy, he said, if congress would extend the civil service law to include such offices. Practically every post up to the grade of United States district attorney, the president told his callers, should be put under the civil service regulations. He has recommended such action to congress in messages, and he said he expects to make similar recommendations in the future.

He declared his belief that there is a lot of "hypocrisy" in the charges made by senators and others that a political machine has been built up through appointments to such offices.

SAVED WOMAN FROM SEA

College Student Prevents Suicide at Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, June 16.—William Essery, a Lehigh college student, plunged from the end of the steel pier fully clothed, to rescue an unidentified woman, who jumped from the structure in an attempt to end her life.

Joseph Gerrity and Earle Davis, two Philadelphians, who were swimming near, came to her assistance. They brought the women ashore. She was escorted to a bus, and hastily left the place without giving her name or the cause of her attempt at suicide.

The sensational plunge of the mysterious stranger and her rescuer caused great excitement among the hundreds on the pier and in the water.

$6000 For Talking Hand.

New York, June 13.—Walter Harriman's "talking hand" was worth $6000 to him. Harriman is a deaf and dumb pressman, and lost his right hand in the press. A jury returned a verdict of $6000 damages in his favor and Justice Newburger, in the state supreme court, refused to set it aside as excessive because it was his "talking hand."

Forgery Warrants Out For Banker.

Atlanta, Ga., June 13.—Three warrants, charging forgery, have been sworn out here against J. Wylie Smith, secretary and treasurer of the Commercial Loan and Trust company, of Atlanta, who disappeared last Tuesday, leaving a shortage in his accounts of $150,000.

Sentenced to Hang.

Lewistown, Pa., June 13.—William J. Schrader convicted of murder in the first degree and recently refused a retrial by Judge J. M. Woods, was brought into court and sentenced to hang. Schrader shot and instantly killed his sweetheart March 9, 1910.

MORMON WANTED IN SUGAR PROBE

Committee Refused to Excuse Joseph F. Smith.

HAVEMEYER'S BIG PULL

Made Enormous Profits Out of Stock Transactions in Organizing Sugar Trust.

Washington, June 16.—Joseph F. Smith, apostle of the Mormon Church, will have to appear before the Hardwick committee of the house which is investigating the sugar refining industry in this country.

Apostle Smith is supposed to have knowledge of some of the operations of the sugar trust. He was one of the organizers of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company, in which the American Sugar Refining company has a large stock interest.

Apostle Smith is not eager to appear before the house investigating committee. Senator Smoot, of Utah, who is also a Mormon apostle, wrote to Chairman Hardwick, asking that Mr. Smith be excused from appearing. Senator Smoot said that Thomas R. Cutler, of Salt Lake City, has full knowledge of the affairs of the Utah concern, and could answer the questions as well as Apostle Smith. The Smoot letter was read at the session of the committee, but Chairman Hardwick objected to excusing Mr. Smith, and the committee promptly voted on the motion of Representative Baker, of California, that the apostle be ordered to appear. Subpoenas have been also issued for Alfred Harrison and Charles K. Harrison, of the Franklin Sugar Refining Company, of Philadelphia; Horace Havemeyer, of New York city, and John O. and Adolph Spreckels, of San Francisco.

Charles H. Heike, former secretary of the American Sugar Refining company, and L. M. Palmer, a former director, who, for many years, was a close business associate of Henry O. Havemeyer, were the principal witnesses examined. Their testimony afforded further evidence of the absolute grip that Henry O. Havemeyer had upon the company, although he owned only a few hundred shares of stock in his own name. There were many indications that Henry O. Havemeyer had personally made enormous profits out of stock transactions involved in the organization of the sugar trust, but neither witness could give any important details on this subject. The committee showed a good deal of interest in a $10,000,000 issue of the common stock of the National Sugar company. More than $7,000,000 of this issue is now in the possession of the Havemeyer family, and the committee intends to find out just exactly how Havemeyer obtained this enormous block of stock, and what, if anything, went into the treasury of the National Sugar company in return for it.

LOVERS DIE IN RIVER

Capsized Canoe Solves Whereabouts of Girl and Her Sweetheart.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 16.—While friends of Miss Emma Fundis, a pretty hospital nurse, and J. W. Murray, a popular young man of Wilkinsburg, awaited their return from a supposed elopement, a canoe in which the pair had been enjoying a ride lay capsized near the Allegheny river's edge, and both were at the river's bottom, drowned.

The families of both had made inquiries at railroad depots, figuring that the inevitable had happened, and that Miss Fundis and young Murray had hied quietly to some other city and been married. Later some boy found the white coat sweater that had been worn by Miss Fundis and her handbag, together with Murray's coat at the water's edge. A short time later boatmen came upon the capsized canoe a little further down stream.

The sad accident is shrouded in mystery, for it is known that both Murray and Miss Fundis were able to swim and the river is not deep in that section, although treacherous sandholes abound, and in these, it is feared, the young couple were drawn.

TAFT MAY GO TO POTTSVILLE

The President Considering Invitation to Attend Celebration.

Washington, June 13.—There is some prospect that the president may go to Pottsville, Pa., to participate in the centennial celebration which is to be held there during the week beginning July 3.

The invitation upon behalf of the centennial celebration committee and those back of the movement has been presented to Mr. Taft by Representative Lee, and the president has it under consideration.

Many Killed in Storm.

Trieste, June 13.—This port was partly wrecked, many were killed and many ships wrecked by a fierce hurricane and an abnormal tide that visited the city. Waves twenty-five feet high swept over the breakwater and flooded the quays. Eight steamships at anchor in the harbor were swept from their moorings, and fisher colliding with one another or were dashed against the stone quays and seriously damaged.

Foster and Champlin Tell How American Plan Won Favor.

New York, June 16.—Former Representative Foster and General Edgar R. Champlin have returned from Rome, where they attended the international convention of agriculture.

The object, they said, was to adopt a standard method for determining crop reports. There was no opposition to the suggestion of the American delegates, and the convention passed a resolution in favor of one numerical standard.

JUDGE AND JURY WEEP AT TRIAL OF "BIG 4" CASE

Mrs. Ford Gives Some Dramatic Testimony.

Cincinnati, O., June 16.—Dramatic incidents stirred the spectators at the trial of Edgar S. Cooke, charged with embezzling $24,000 from the Big Four railway. The scene brought tears from judge, jury, attorneys and spectators.

Mrs. Jeannette Stewart Ford was on the stand for cross-examination. Her daughter, aged six years, ran to her mother just as the letter said: "There is my daughter, Jeannette, and she is Cooke's child."

So shaken was Mrs. Ford by the incident that she was removed, sobbing bitterly, from the room. After an interval her physician told the court that she could not stand the ordeal of further questioning.

The cross-examination had been merciless. Under the fire of questions she admitted having shot and wounded Cooke, of having had him arrested for non-support of their child.

Letters of the two were read and then it was the turn of Mrs. Cooke, who has been loyal to her husband throughout, and who sat by his side in court, to shrink, for in many of them her husband had referred to her as "O. H.," which Mrs. Ford testified meant "Old Hag."

There was another agonizing moment for the wife when the woman in the wheel chair declared that Cooke had taken her to New York after promising to marry her.

German Crown Prince in Crash.

Berlin, June 16.—Crown Prince Frederick William met with an automobile accident, but escaped injury. His machine skidded on the car tracks as he was driving through one of the business streets and landed on the sidewalk. The crown prince was thrown out, but was unhurt.

DEMOCRATS FORM FEDERATION

Forty Clubs Organize at Harrisburg.

W. B. WILSON IS PRESIDENT

Will Attempt to Reorganize the Party in the State and Oust the Followers of Guffey.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 16.—A State Federation of Democratic Clubs was organized here with forty clubs represented and leaders of the reorganization wing of this party present from all parts of the state.

Congressman William B. Wilson was made temporary chairman, a constitution was adopted and Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, was cheered enthusiastically when he was introduced to the convention. Both Governor Wilson and Speaker Champ Clark addressed a big rally, the culmination of the federation meeting.

The following officers were elected: President, Congressman William B Wilson, Tioga county; secretary, W. N. McNair, Allegheny county; vice president, Leon Levy, Lackawanna county; Warren Worth Bailey, Cambria county; John N. Moore, Lancaster county, and Joseph Howley, Allegheny county; Lawrence H. Rupp, Lehigh county; treasurer, Francis Fisher Kane, Philadelphia.

Governor Wilson was presented to the convention by Messrs. Kane, Philadelphia; Colter, Williamsport, and Davis, Lancaster, and received an ovation.

Wilson Warns Democrats.

Governor Wilson's address was a warning to the Democrats that, if called on by the country to correct things they must know what to do and how to do it.

"I would be the last man to indict reformers, but there is this to be said, that some times reformers have acted like amateurs," said he.

"Some good men have been dangerous or foolish. I have known good men to be followed by many before they found he was foolish. The problem of politics is knowing how, to have a program. Indignation doesn't do things. It is like unconfined steam. Don't let us get mad and do nothing else. Let us go and find out and go after abuses."

A draft of the constitution for the federation was presented by Francis Fisher Kane, of Philadelphia, and started a lively discussion.

John A. Thoroton, of Philadelphia, presented an amendment providing that, in addition to the $10 entrance fee, clubs having more than 100 members should pay an annual fee of $10 under 100 and over 50, $5, and under 50, $2.50. This change was made to help the small clubs.

The representation was changed so as to give each club five delegates, with one for each additional 50 above 100. Roland S. Morris, Philadelphia, also took a hand in the changing, and had the number of vice presidents fixed at five instead of four.

A committee on resolutions was named as follows: Roland S. Morris, Philadelphia; David Fitzgerald, Jenkintown; W. W. Bailey, Johnstown; R. W. Guthrie, Pittsburg, and Lawrence Rupp, Allentown.

Expect to Rout Guffy Men.

One thing made evident by the assembling of the Democratic clans is that the Democratic state central committee will be asked to elect George W. Guthrie, of Pittsburg, for a full term as state chairman when it meets in this city on July 19, as approval of the reorganization committee. This has been the program of the reorganization wing ever since Guthrie and Congressman Palmer were selected in place of James M. Guffey, national committeeman, and Arthur DeWalt state chairman, on March 14. The men in charge of the rejuvenation movement feel so sure of their position that they declare the elections will be effected without much opposition.

Before returning to Peterhof his majesty presented signed portraits of himself to Admiral Badger and the captains of the battleships Louisiana, Kansas, New Hampshire and South Carolina.

PAY $32,065 TO END CUSTOMS FRAUD CASE

Dressmaking Company Undervalued Imports.

New York, June 13.—Assistant United States Attorney Levy accepted on behalf of the government $32,065.68 in full settlement of the undervaluation frauds claim against the Mrs. Osborn Company, dressmakers, at 23 East Forty-sixth street. The total alleged loss in duty to the government was $64,131.52.

The merchandise on which undervaluations are alleged was gowns and models purchased from Paquin and other well-known costumers in Paris to the value of more than $200,000 in five years, from September, 1904, to May, 1908.

The settlement was offered by the trustees of the Mrs. Osborn Company, who hold all but fifty shares of the corporation's stock, and carry on the business for the benefit of the young daughter of Mrs. Osborn. The mother died a year ago, a short time after the undervaluation frauds was discovered.

FRENCH CABINET TO QUIT ?

Premier Embarrassed by Position As Wine Merchant.

Paris, June 16.—Rumors that the ministry is about to resign are persistently current in Paris.

The fact that the government in the cabinet council decided to suppress the famous delimitations which caused so much trouble is figured as having shaken the position of M. Monis, the premier, who, as a wholesale win merchant in Bordeaux, is too closely identified with the policy of delimitation to remain in office.

If the cabinet does not resign it is not expected to survive the debate on delimitations on Thursday.

Hatches Eggs in Stove.

Bloomsburg, Pa., June 13.—Mrs. William Hartman proved again that necessity is the mother of invention when she found the mother hen killing the first two peeps that she hatched out. Taking the remaining thirteen eggs, about to be hatched, from the mother hen, she placed them in the stove and every one hatched.

ELEVEN RECEIVE THEIR DIPLOMAS

Entertainment in Xavier Hall on Occasion of Annual Graduation Exercises. Pretty Features. Cantata and Other Numbers.

The annual commencement exercises of St Francis Xavier's School were held Monday evening in Xavier Hall in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives of the graduates and the many others who took part in the entertainment. As in all the other public affairs given by the pupils of the parochial schools the careful training and instruction received at the hands of the Sisters was well demonstrated. The Citizens' Band played a number of times during the evening.

The hall was very prettily decorated with the school colors, yellow and white, and the stage was banked with potted plants.

The program opened with a greeting glee by the eleven graduates, Merlin B. Breighner, Joseph E. Codori, Marguerite E. Frommeyer, Joseph A Maguire, Grace E Ramer, Ruth B. Strausbaugh, Rose M. Thomas, Allan P. McSherry, Lucy A Redding Simon S. Stock, Margaret A. Twomey. Miss Grace Ramer delivered the salutatory.

One of the best numbers of the evening was "The Meeting of the Nations" in which a large number participated. Two girls represented each of the following nations, England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Germany, Italy, Holland, Switzerland, Norway and Russia, wearing the garb of those countries and each carrying the country's flag. China and Japan were also represented, the former by a boy and the later by a girl, the whole presenting a very pretty stage picture after all the pairs had been presented and each had rendered their appropriate song

Three songs by students of the parochial schools contributed to the excellence of the program, "The Flag of the Free," "Who Loved Mother Best" and "The Bugle Horn."

A cantata portraying the parable of "The Foolish Virgins" was exceptionally well given. Five girls represented the wise and five the foolish virgins, the one party lighting their lamps as the coming of the bridegroom was announced, the others trying in vain to borrow oil and returning with what they purchased too late to gain entrance

Simon S. Stock gave the valedictory and the diplomas was presented to the graduates by Rev. Fr Connahan, the members of the class being presented to him by Harry F. Breighner.

Certificates for excellence in business writing were presented to Martin B. Breighner and Lucy A. Redding. Certificates for excellence in penmanship were given to Simon S Stock, Margaret A. Twomey, Ruth B Strausbaugh and Rose M. Thomas

Rev. Fr. Connahan made a very earnest and forceful address to the graduates, the program being concluded with the final selection by the band.

McKNIGHTSTOWN 2 ARENDTSVILLE 0

The Arendtsville base ball team journeyed to McKnightstown on Saturday last and there met defeat by the score of 2 to 0

The game was characterized by good, clean base ball. In the third inning J. Bream drove out a home run to deep center and in the eighth inning R. Bream made a beautiful running catch, also getting the ball back to first in time to catch a runner off of his base, making what seemed an impossible double play. For Arendtsville W. Raffensperger at short stop and Wierman at first base pulled down quite a few difficult flies. J. Bream proved to be quite a slab artist for the local boys, striking out nine men and allowing only two hits, one of which was a scratch. Funt also pitched a very creditable game for the visitors.

It has been a long time since the people of McKnightstown have been able to witness a game so cleanly played and it is upon this that the team as well as the people wish to congratulate the Arendtsville boys heartily.

The festival which was held by the home team immediately following the game was greatly spoiled by rain in the early part of the evening. On this account the boys were hindered from making the required amount for the new uniforms which they are about to purchase, but it is their intention to hold another one in the near future to make up the shortage.

LARGE NEW POTATOES

Elliott Valentine of Seminary Ridge, is taking out potatoes measuring from five to six inches in length. They were planted early and are the largest new potatoes reported this spring.

STORM DOES GREAT DAMAGE

Several County Barns Burned, Others Unroofed in Saturday Night Storm. Severe Storm Sunday Night Does Little Damage.

Three barns were burned and another demolished in a severe electrical storm which swept over Adams County Saturday evening. Early Mon morning another storm visited the county but did no damage of any extent other than putting out of commission a large number of telegraph and telephone lines

The barn of Willord Myers, near York Springs, was struck by lightning during Saturday evening's storm and burned to the ground together with some poultry and wagons The stock and the more valuable wagons were gotten out. Mr. Myers had gone to Philadelphia to take his wife to a hospital in that city Mr and Mrs. Albert Darr live in the house with them but Mr. Darr was in York Springs at the time and Mrs. Darr did all the work of saving the horses and wagons Twenty four turkeys burned, together with some chickens and pigeons.

The barn of John Bechtell, of near East Berlin and that of William Spengler, near Bigmount, were both struck and burned to the ground during Saturday night's storm. All the live stock was saved in both fires The strong wind which accompanied Saturday's evening's storm blew down and completely demolished the barn of P. K. Kouffman at Red Mount

The barn of John Quiggle a mile and a half from East Berlin was struck by lightning Saturday night but Mr. Quiggle saved the building by carrying out the blazing straw with his hands. In doing this he was badly scorched about the hands, arms and face but, though his injuries were painful, they were not of a serious nature.

The barns of John L Baughman and John B. Baughman between East Berlin and Bermudian were unroofed and that of D B Harlacher had the top blown off down to the "square".

The Sunday barn at East Berlin in the rear of the Gruver stables was struck but the building carried a lightning rod and the only damage was the breaking of the ball from the top of the rod This however, developed into a rumor current in Gettysburg that the Sunday house had been burned.

The chimney at the home of N. G. Miller at Knoxlyn was struck during Saturday night's storm but little damage was done, the lightning following the rain spout to a barrel filled with water.

Lightning struck in the office of the almshouse this morning but did little damage beside breaking several windows.

Exceptionally hard thunder followed a flash of lightning shortly after three o'clock Mon morning and awokended about every inhabitant in Gettysburg Those who saw the lightning say that it resembled a ball of fire which suddenly burst and let down a long electrical streamer to the ground. Several other almost equally severe thunder claps followed soon after the first.

Chambersburg was visited by a terrific wind storm Saturday night. The roof of the Chambersburg Trust Company building, the most imposing in the Cumberland Valley, was blown off The roof of the Valley Spirit building was torn off and blown across the street and deposited on the roof of the Central Presbyterian Church. The Indian Queen Hotel, too, was unroofed. The roof of the home of Dr. H. C. Devilbiss was blown on to the roof of Henry Sierer, who lives a square south of the doctor's home. Other houses unroofed were those of former Mayor George H. Wood, on Garmen street, and Secretary W. ff. Fisher, of the T. B. Wood's Sons' Company

The steeple of the Central Presbyterian Church, the highest in the town, is cracked for a distance of 40 feet and will probably have to be taken down. A 60 foot pole of the American Union Telephone Company, was broken in half, and with the dozen cross arms resting in a tree was one of the unusual sights when the storm subsided shortly before seven o'clock.

Perhaps the greatest damage was done to the new shop building of the T. B. Wood's Sons' Company, on Fifth avenue. The wind blew at least 100 feet of the north end of the building in, and its rebuilding will be necessary.

WILLIAM CARBAUGH

SIGNATURES OF RAILWAY HEADS; EXAMPLES OF POOR PENMANSHIP

LITERARY men are not the only persons who scorn penmanship. Carlyle, and Dickens and Thackeray would never have taken down many business college prizes with their quills, but at that they got along with the chirography fully as well as the railroad presidents of today even if there has been a great improvement in writing facilities and in writing methods too One has only to examine a collection of the signatures of the presidents of railways to prove this.

To illustrate, take the signature of A. A. Allen, president and general manager of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway company. Mr Allen could not have got very far at a district school with a signature like that.

THE ASTOUNDING SIGNATURE OF A. A. ALLEN, PRESIDENT AND GENERAL MANAGER OF THE M., K. AND T. RAILWAY.

It looks more like a sketch of the lighting system of a severe thunder shower than anything else, but somehow the Standard Oil interests seemed to approve it. At least that mark to an order on its 3,300 mile railway system, the Katy, goes as law Mr Allen used to be a telegraph operator in the days when they copied messages by hand.

But there are other peculiar signatures besides that of Mr. Allen to back up the assertion that penmanship is not an essential of success in the railway business. In fact, most of the presidents of railroads add to the proof of that point every time they sign their names

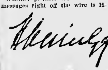

Take Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Chicago and Alton and the Clover Leaf roads, for example. His signature is sufficiently puzzling to affix to a cryptogram, but it is the same one he used when he ran the Panama canal for Theodore Roosevelt, and it is good on an Interborough railway pass in New York city, too, and Mr Shonts is a college man despite that scrawl

Another penman who used to take messages right off the wire is H. U

H. U. MUDGE, PRESIDENT OF THE ROCK ISLAND, USED TO TAKE MESSAGES RIGHT OFF THE WIRE WHEN HE WAS A TELEGRAPH OPERATOR, BUT YOU WOULD NEVER GUESS IT.

Mudge of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, but you would never guess it was he from his signature. Mr. Mudge is now the head of 8,000 miles of railway.

Judge R. S. Lovett, who succeeded the late E. H. Harriman as chairman of the board of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, used to be a lawyer down in Texas, and he had time to learn to write his name with comparative legibility. And meantime he picked up knowledge that enables him to run a railway system comprising 18,000 miles of track and involving thirteen hundred and seventy million dollars capitalization.

Then there's B. L. Winchell, president of the 5,200 mile Frisco system. Mr. Winchell writes the first initial of his name very clearly, but from there well with his name until he reaches the last letter. That slips away from him and rolls down the paper rather aimlessly. But the task of keeping 10,000 miles of first class railway in good shape and especially of keeping it absolutely free from mergers in this era of combinations of big transportation systems makes a man busy, and Mr. Ripley feels justified in saving a fraction of a second on each "y."

F. A. Delano, whom the Goulds put at the head of the Wabash, gets on better with his surname than with his initials, which is rather unusual. But Mr. Delano is a Harvard graduate and probably had to learn to write well enough to sign them there.

A. J. Earling, who as president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul company looks after 9,500 miles of railway, would make a fairly good grade on penmanship almost any time. He also used to be a telegrapher. About the only weak point in his signature is the first letter of his surname.

Darius Miller, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, and

$1,000 TO AID SUFFRAGE.

Miss Dorothy Whitney Gives That Sum to the Cause.

Miss Dorothy Whitney, daughter of the late William C. Whitney, has joined the battle for votes for women by a donation of $1,000 to the Women's Political union.

self consciousness, apparently as happy to step out shoulder to shoulder with her professional and industrial sisters.

While the secret, according to Miss Whitney's wish, has been carefully guarded, even those in the councils of the union being informed only that "a young society woman" had so generously swelled the treasury, there have been signs and tokens that the daughter of William C. Whitney had recently changed her attitude of passive conviction of the right of women to the franchise to an active desire to participate in its advent.

COMMISSION DID NOT SELECT SITE

Maine Monument Commission Considers Several Places for Location of Proposed Memorial to Gen. Howard. Oak Ridge Favored.

The members of the Maine Commission here Friday to look over the battlefield to select a site for the proposed memorial to General O. O. Howard left on their return next morning. No definite selection was made and likely will not be for some time as the matter of securing an appropriation for the memorial will not come up before the next session of the Maine legislators eighteen months later.

The Commission intimated that they would like a site on East Cemetery Hill but there are arguments against this which might prevent their being able to get a site on that part of the field. The principal reason advanced is the presence there already of the equestrian statue to General Hancock and it is not thought advisable to place the two monuments so close.

Another position favorably considered is along Oak Ridge near the tower. General Howard, on the first day of the battle, rode along Oak Ridge with General Doubleday after the death of General Reynolds, and approved the disposition of the troops made by General Doubleday. General Howard figured conspicuously in the fight of the first day and this, together with the fact that there is no other equestrian statue on Oak Ridge, is being pressed as an argument for that position.

The Commission, however, took no definite action and it will likely be some time before they do express their choice. This will likely be used in the matter of getting the necessary appropriation from the Maine legislature.

SNAKES

Mr and Mrs Wm Wolf, of Orrtanna, killed a rattlesnake Friday which measured three feet four inches and contained ten rattles. Mrs. Wolf was busy with her housework when she was attracted by the unusual barking of their little dog on the porch. Upon investigation she found that the dog was guarding faithfully a huge rattle snake. She called to her husband and he appeared with a shovel and held the snake down while his wife cut off the head with a hoe.

A vicious copperhead snake of large size was dispatched Thursday along Carbaugh run, near Graeffenburg Inn, by Mrs. Ellen N. Shumaker and Miss Annie McGowan. The skin of the venomous reptile now adorns the hall of Mrs. Shumaker's mountain cottage, Glen Brae, the two ladies having removed it from the body with knife and scissors.

COMMITTEE MEETING

The Democratic County Committee met Saturday at the Globe Hotel and in addition to transacting the usual business elected the following officers: chairman, S. Miley Miller, Gettysburg; secretary, D. P. Delap, Bendersville; treasurer, Paul A. Martin, Gettysburg. After the terms of the present committeemen expire their successors will be elected for a term of two years. The former term was one year.

REMODELING CHURCH

The auditorium of the Lutheran church in York Springs, is being frescoed the work being done by the firm of Watt and Brother Company, of York. The Willing Workers Society is furnishing the funds for doing the work. The carpet has been taken out and a new one put in which will be paid for by popular subscription. The old carpet will be used to cover the floor in the Sunday School room on the first floor.

MERCHANTS WILL BANQUET

The Retail Merchants' Association will hold a banquet on Friday evening, June 23, and will have as the guest of honor Congressman Lafean. Mr. Lafean has been specially active in complying with the requests of the organization and, in fact, has secured everything which the association has asked of him. There will be several speakers at the banquet which promises to be an event of exceptional interest.

June 29.—The king and queen will drive, as on the 23d, to the city. This time they make two considerable halts—one for a service of thanksgiving at St. Paul's and the other for luncheon at the Guildhall.

June 30.—On the last day of the month, originally intended to be the last day of the coronation festivities, the king and queen will honor Mr. and Mrs. Asquith with their presence at dinner.

July 1.—The court is removed to Windsor on this date.

TEACHERS TAKE SUMMER COURSE

Many Register at University of Pennsylvania.

TERM IS SIX WEEKS

Every Branch of Knowledge Covered. Up-to-Date Model School—Women to Use Dormitories and Swimming Pool—Scholarships Offered.

School teachers from nearly every county in the state are registering for the coming session of the Summer School of the University of Pennsylvania. The term will begin on July 5 and will continue for six weeks until August 16. Lectures upon almost every branch of knowledge, together with excursions about Philadelphia and social entertainments of various kinds, will combine to make a pleasant vacation for the students.

The feature which is attracting the greatest number of persons is the School of Observation. This is a model school which will be conducted by sixteen of the most expert teachers in the United States. These instructors have been selected from the cities throughout the country which are believed to have the finest systems of public education. The model school will have eight grades, two of which will be ungraded. There will be a teacher in charge of each of the grades, while the eight other teachers will demonstrate how children should be taught music, gymnastics, swimming, gardening and industrial work.

For Rural Teachers.

Especial attention will be paid to the ungraded work, which will be conducted with a view to helping the teachers in the rural districts solve some of the problems which confront them. The famous Batavia system of individual instruction will also be illustrated by an exponent of that method. About 200 children will act as the pupils for the model school, which is located on the edge of the university campus. The sessions at the school will be from nine until half past eleven every morning. During this time the regular primary and grammar school branches will be taught the children, together with a half hour of organized play and physical exercise.

For the remainder of the day the men and women who register in the Summer School will be able to pursue their favorite lines of study. There is no prescribed work. The teachers will be permitted to do just as much or as little as they like.

The courses in psychology are expected to be the most popular. There are thirteen of these, a majority of which have to do with the study of the child. An exhibition class of twenty backward children will be taught by Miss Elizabeth Farrell, inspector of ungraded classes in New York city. She will show how the incorrigible, stupid and retarded boys and girls who visit the psychological clinic of the university may be educated. Another of the courses in psychology is that in educational psychology which considers the development of the child from the germ cell to the age of fourteen years and discusses the influences of heredity, environment and disease.

Special Gymnasium Work.

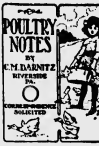

The university gymnasium will be thrown open to the students in the Summer School. A corps of doctors, professors and instructors will deliver lectures and illustrate methods of physical training which will enable the students to qualify as physical directors. Both men and women are registering for this course. During certain hours the university swimming pool will be reserved exclusively for the women.

An abundance of courses is offered in all of the modern and ancient languages, in history, the fine arts, in sociology, economics, the sciences and architecture. In addition the students will find plenty of opportunity for social pleasures. Popular lectures, receptions, teas and excursions through Philadelphia and the vicinity will contribute to the amusement and recreation of men and women alike. Trips also will be taken in connection with some of the courses, as in physical and commercial geography and botany.

The students in geography will visit the wharves and docks of Philadelphia and will be given in this way an idea of the vast shipping interests of the state. They will also inspect representative manufactories in and about the city. Those who take the course in botany will not only make excursions to the haunts of the various local wild flowers, but will also have the use of the botanic gardens and the hot houses of the university, in which grow every species of plant.

Two of the best houses in the dormitory system have been reserved for the women. In charge of these will be responsible chaperons. The houses will be separated from those occupied by the men by the entire length of the system. A large reception room in one of the dormitory houses will furnish a social center for the students.

Through the agency of the Mothers' Congress, the Christian Temperance Union and other organizations, a number of scholarships to the Summer School have been provided. Teachers throughout the state will be eligible for these scholarships. The director of the Summer School is Dr. A. Duncan Yocum, professor of pedagogy.

SHADE ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY

Wouldn't our great-grandma giggle "Te-he" at horses sporting straw sunbonnets in the hot season?

Granddad decorated his bald top with a green cabbage leaf for a sunstroke protector and rigged up old Fan and Dobbin Gray with leafy boughs to keep off flies and skeeters. That beats cuttin' off horses' tails and manes for style and lettin' the pests eat em up. But don't bother inventin' Biddy bonnets. Granddad's green bough is good enough sunshade for Biddy.

Just look at the pictures—the one flock cool and contented in that beautiful shady orchard, the other roasting in the glaring sun, with no refuge for relief. A wooden man can tell which flock will turn out better.

Yet some fellows who provide no protection for poultry wonder why many of their chicks and ducklings die and others do not reach a profitable maturity.

It's often the weather. We believe in furnishing a variety of food and allowing fowls to balance their own ration; likewise we afford facilities for sun and sheds and let old and young stock take as much of each as necessary.

Sun is necessary for fowls. They love it. Watch them spread their wings and tails, loosen their plumage and incline their bodies to catch the virtue of every ray. It is warmth and a health tonic to a certain limit. Then it's a roast, and prostration, sunstroke, paralysis, death, follow. Many flocks are prisoners at the stake. The extreme cruelty of it is they can't escape. You see this where there is no shade in the runs, where low roofed houses afford no relief by day or night, where crated poultry stands in the scorching sun.

But this is all so easily remedied and may be so beautifully done. How?

Simply by planting sunflowers, vines and fruit trees around our poultry houses and runs, by building houses capable of ventilation, by erecting artificial shade where necessary.

While we are apt to get hit by a flareback when we attempt to control the weather, we can so modify matters in the hot season that our fowls may have cool food, cool water and cool retreats, and they must have them to insure success.

DON'TS.

Don't make nests high. Bumblefoot, cripples.

Don't let litter get damp. Roup, cramp.

Don't make ducks climb steps. Broken legs.

Don't let mice nest with pigeons. Chilled eggs.

Don't give homers much hemp. Get fat.

Don't use hellebore for hen lice. Poison.

Don't use slaked lime on dropping boards. Spoils manure.

Don't loaf; don't snooze away work hours. Loafers become Weary Willies; snoozers are losers.

CIRCUS COMING

With every spangle glistening, and every performer, human and animal, full of life and enthusiasm, the Frank Robbins Circus will visit Gettysburg on Monday, June 19 to give two performances. The show comes this year fresh from winter quarters, with every costume new, fresh and resplendent, the trappings shining, and the coats of the horses and animals sleek and glossy. Of course it is the same old show. Who would want to see a circus that is not. Everyone who has tried to make a circus anything else has ended in dismal failure, and Mr. Robbins, with his experience in the show business has learned that the only way to succeed with a circus is to give a regular old fashioned show. But with all this there is a difference. The show this year has all of the good old features and not a few new ones. There is the Japanese who does stunts with his umbrellas; the broad backed, fine looking ring horses, with the lady riders who dance gracefully on their backs; the iron jawed woman who whirls dizzily hanging by her teeth, and the hundred and one things the children, and the grown ups too, never tire of seeing.

COTTAGERS ON MOUNTAIN

Only two or three cottages in the Blue Ridge Summit and Monterey sections on the mountains are without their permanent tenants and the next few days are expected to fill these. Rarely have the summer residents taken to the mountains so early in the year. The recent warm weather is believed to have been responsible for starting the exodus from the cities this early. On one train the other day 107 pieces of baggage were carried to Blue Ridge Summit, two baggage cars being required for this big amount. It is said by those familiar with conditions on the mountain that this promises to be one of the best years in the resort's history.

TRUMPETER KITCHEN HURT

Frederick Kitchen, trumpeter of Troop G, 15th United States Cavalry, who spent some weeks in the Adams County jail two years ago was probably fatally hurt Sunday night when an automobile in which he was riding near Fort Meyer was struck by a trolley car. The owner and driver of the car was burned to death under the automobile while two other soldiers were slightly hurt. Kitchen had both arms broken, sustained internal injuries and is expected to die. The trumpeter was with a detachment of the 15th United States Cavalry at the time of the visit of the War College officers to Gettysburg two years ago.

She is survived by her husband and seven children the eldest about fifteen years. She is also survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hockensmith, of Brushtown, and several brothers and sisters.

A movement is on foot by the sportsmen of McSherrystown to purchase a plot of ground for holding athletic events which will comprise baseball, trap shooting and other amusements. The matter, which was taken up and discussed at a meeting of the Home Association of the Eagles, met the hearty approval of the large number of members present. A committee was appointed to look up a site, of which there are a number in view, receive estimates and report at an early date.

BOY SCOUTS HOME AGAIN

Gettysburg Boy Scouts Welcomed by Large Crowd when they Returned Home on Thursday Evening. Successful Trip.

The Western Maryland station was crowded Thursday evening with relatives, friends and admirers of the Boy Scouts of Gettysbrug who gathered there to welcome the sight seeing boys upon their return from their eight days' trip to the Capitol City.

Had the Scouts actnally been to war for a year, escaped all injury from shot and shell and been returned safe to their parents the greeting they would have received could scarcely have been more effusive. The welcome given them showed how much their pluck was admired and how much they had been missed.

All came home with the exception of three, Clarence Eppley, Harry Troxell and Spurgeon Keeney. This trio started to hike home Friday and will reach Gettysburg some time next week. They were not sure whether they would return by way of Harper's Ferry or Westminster and this will decide whether or not they get here before the latter part of the week. All three of the boys marched the entire way down and are anxious to make a record of hiking both ways between Gettysburg and Washington. Edgar Faber and Fred Troxell, members of the Scout Council, did not return with the main body but came back today.

The Scouts are all enthusiastic over the time they had. All claim that they are just as well as when they started out with the possible exception or more ima sickly pocket books.

Questions by the score have been put to the Scouts at their homes and by their friends ever since they came back and they have been too busy talking to think of much else. One of the principal questions asked was "What did you do in the evenings?" To this one of the boys answered,

"Some nights we went to the Congressional Library, only a little distance from the church where we were quartered." Other nights we went to the picture shows but as a rule, by the time evening came, we were right tired and glad to rest."

The boys kept peace with each other throughout the entire trip except once each day when the mail came and with it a pack of The Gettysburg Times. A daily scrap for the news from home was the result and it was always a few minutes before things were straightened out.

The trip home was made without incident. From Washington to Baltimore they had a Pullman electric car. A special car from the Monumental City here would have been secured but they had only ten minutes margin and that was too short a time in which to arrange for the service.

The big event of the trip took place promptly at half past two Wednesday afternoon. The Scouts formed in line at the White House and marched through a number of Secret Service men and guards into the East Room of the Executive Mansion, the room in which Miss Alice Roosevelt was married and where the large social functions of the White House are held.

Here the Scouts and a few other parties formed a semi-circle and waited for President Taft to appear. They had but a few moments to wait and the reception quickly followed. One by one the boys passed him, giving a guard their names and than being formally introduced to the Chief Executive. When Carroll McDonnel reached him he said,

"Mr. President, accept this cane in behalf of the Boy Scouts of Gettysburg."

The President took the battlefield souvenir cane which the boys had taken along on the trip and looking at it said,

"Why, thank you, I shall keep it and prize it highly."

Congressman Lafean who was standing with Mr. Taft told him that the wood in the cane came from Devil's Den and the President seemed much pleased, answering immediately

"Is that so! I was there."

The reception over, the boys immediately turned their steps towards the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool for they had had a strenuous day of it preceding the reception.

At seven o'clock in the morning the Scouts visited the Lincoln Museum. An hour later they visited the Washington Times office where a photographer took a photograph of Carroll McDonnell and the cane he was to present to Mr. Taft later in the day. From there the Scouts marched to the Patent Office and then to the Treasury where they were shown the vault that contains over a hundred million silver dollars.

When the guide told the boys how many wagons are required to transport this fortune in case one remarked,

"Well, I can carry all I have without using even one wagon."

From the Treasury the Scouts went to the State, War and Navy departments, then to lunch and after lunch to the magnificent hall of the Daughters of the American Revolution and to the Fish Commission building. This ended the sight seeing and was followed by the visit to the White House.

FISHERMEN OUT ON FIRST DAY

Gettysburg Anglers Spent First Day of Bass Season along Nearby Streams. Water Muddy but Some Good Catches Made.

Thursday was the opening day for the bass season in Pennsylvania and numerous Gettysburg fishermen were out along the banks of nearby streams trying their luck. They report the water very muddy and conditions for bass fishing generally unsatisfactory. Nevertheless many town fishermen brought home nice fish, the catches reported being as follows:

J. H. Stover 3, H. B Sefton 8, C. K. Gilbert 5, Albert Z. Rogers 5, F. Mark Bream 8, Tom Nixon 1, W. J. Eden 8, John Slabyangh 2, J. A. Mickley 4, F. C. Stock 6, Theodore McAllister 5, Oliver Beitler 5, Huber Miller 2, John Slocher Jr. 1

The largest bass is reported by Harry Miller, of New Oxford, who caught one weighing four pounds and six ounces in the Conewago between New Oxford and New Chester.

Following is an abstract of the laws, which are particularly interesting to anglers, and concerning which there have been many inquiries.

Bass and other warm water game fish, excepting pickerel, Susquehanna salmon, blue pike and yellow perch, may lawfully be caught from June 15 to November 30, inclusive. Pickerel, Susquehanna salmon, blue pike and yellow perch, from June 15 to December 31, inclusive. Lake trout from June 15 to November 30, inclusive. Brook trout, from April 15 to July 31, inclusive. Sun fish, no closed season.

The maximum number which may be taken are: Small mouth black bass, striped bass and large mouth bass, eight inches, in interior waters, nine inches in Lake Erie and the Delaware river; rock, white, strawberry or grass bass, yellow perch and crapple, six inches; blue pike, Susquehanna salmon and pickerel, twelve inches.

WILL ATTEND CONVENTION

Gettysburg Fire Company Decides to Attend Big State Convention at York and Participate in Parade. Band likely to Go.

The Gettysburg Fire Company has decided to attend in a body the state firemen's convention to be held in York September 5 to 8. Parade day will be Thursday the seventh and it is probable that Gettysburg's fire fighters will go down the evening preceding.

The present plan is to take along the Citizens' Band though no apparatus will be taken. The acceptances of fire companies from all parts of the state have been reaching York in large numbers during the past two months and present indications are that the parade will be one of the largest ever held at a state convention. The usual prizes will be offered for participants. A committee of local firemen has been appointed to arrange all the details for the trip.

The last time the Gettysburg Fire Company attended a state convention was at Allentown some years ago when Daniel Sell, then a member of the local company, won first prize for being the smallest fireman in the state.

The Fire Company, at the meeting at which it was determined to attend the York convention, also decided to place the offices of secretary, financial secretary and treasurer on a salary basis and from now on each of those three officers will get $10.00 a year for their services.

CANDIDATES NOT AFFECTED

Recently some newspapers, The Times included, said that a law recently signed by Governor Tener required prothonotaries in counties of 20,000 to 1,000,000 population, to be "men learned in the law." The statement was incorrect. The law provides for such qualifications in a deputy prothonotary in counties having from 250,000 to 1,000,000. The candidates for nomination as prothonotary in this county are not affected by the new law.
